
Work and Jobs Federal Bonding Program

If you are concerned that employers may not be interested in hiring you, consider exploring the Federal Bonding Program (FBP). The U.S. Department of Labor provides a bonding program free of charge for the first six months of employment. It was created for “high risk” employees, often used for people who have a felony offense.

The application process is simple and can help employers feel more comfortable hiring a person who may look risky on paper.

You can learn more through this website:

<http://bonds4jobs.com/our-services/get-your-bond-today>

The above website can help you find locations closer to you. The state of Texas Bonding Service Coordinator location is listed below, but there are many sites throughout Texas, and throughout every state.

Texas Workforce Commission

101 E. 15th Street, Room 440-AT

Austin, TX 78778-0001

Phone: 512-463-1683

Email: fidelity.bonding@twc.state.tx.us